- Self help is a great virtue in a man. It gives him enough courage to face the tasks of his life boldly. To a self-reliant man, life is a great adventure. He carries out all his plans with determination. Sometimes he is placed in difficult circumstances, but his strong will help him to overcome the difficulties and achieve all that he expects. Hence Emerson calls self reliance, the essence of heroism and the first secret of success.

3. Make a précis of the following passage in your own words and add an appropriate title.

As nations understand one another better, they come to like one another more, to treat and help one another more. Thus, wars become less and less frequent, and each country enjoys peace and is able to develop in the way that is best suited to its own characteristics. The arts and literature of one, the commerce and industry of another, the science and philosophy of a third, all combine in the service of humanity and the whole world is made better and happier. For just as we are taught to aim, not at our own individual welfare, but at the welfare of the whole body of our countrymen, so we should remember that each country has a duty to perform in the great work of the world. Let each of us try then to love his fellow-man of whatever race he may be, and endeavour to learn as much as possible of the great world that lies beyond our own land.
