SECTION A- Reading Skills

1. Read the following passage carefully:

(1) Having a sense of humor might mean having the ability to entertain other people by making them laugh, but it can also mean having a quick wit that is frequently employed to criticize other people with mischief comments. Some might define a sense of humor as the ability to see humor in everyday life or as appreciating the cleverness of puns and wordplay, and many think it is possible to possess a good sense of humour without ever having those around them be aware of it.

(2) In any case, a sense of humour is a socially valued trait that almost all of us would rather have more, rather than less of – akin to the way that we think about intelligence or good looks. A person with an undeveloped sense of humour lacks a social skill that puts him or her at a severe disadvantage in the hurly-burly of everyday adult life.

(3) Freud thought of humour as an outlet for forbidden impulses, and philosophers ranging from Aristotle to Descartes believed that we are amused by something when it makes us feel superior to other people.

(4) Evolutionary psychologists believe that humour, along with other creative abilities, such as art and music, evolved as an honest signal of intelligence and genetic quality. The value of such a skill in defusing tension, aggressive situations and in managing alliances and friendships should not be underestimated either.

(5) Schmoozing with a bunch of new people at a cocktail party is an opportunity to engage in light-hearted banter, and other people are grateful when someone is skilful enough to turn a stiff and awkward situation into fun. Cracking jokes, making witty remarks, or engaging in humorous, cheeky observations about the social scene can be like fishing for other minds that connect naturally with one's own. When it works, humour can be a device for connecting people who are operating on the same wavelength.

(6) Observing the operation of other people in such situations gives you a feel as to who you would like to get to know better – and who might be best left behind, wallowing in indignation and bitterness. In short, a sense of humour is the Swiss Army Knife of social skills. Perhaps it is indeed a single instrument, but it contains an arsenal of tools – each exquisitely designed for a unique social purpose.

Answer the following questions, based on the given passage:

(i) How does the author prove in paragraph 1 that a sense of humour is a double-edged sword?

Solution: Step 1: Identifying the key point in paragraph 1 The passage states that humour can be used to entertain others and make them laugh. However, it also mentions that humour can be used to criticize others with witty remarks. This shows that humour has both a positive and a negative aspect.

(1) This report presents findings from the Youth Aspirations in India Survey in which 5,764 youth between the ages of 15 and 30 were asked about their employment, education, and skilling aspirations.

(2) Indian youth valued higher education. 50 percent of respondents aspire to attain a post-graduate degree, 24 percent a PhD, and 21 percent a bachelor's degree. Only 2 percent of respondents hope to attain a college or vocational diploma as their highest form of education.

(3) Respondents have a strong preference for attaining higher education degrees. At the same time, there is an awareness of changing skills requirements and an interest in augmenting their skills. 76 percent of youth report being very interested in pursuing a skills development programme. 70 percent of youth identified more employment opportunities as the main motivation for wanting to pursue skills development training.

(4) A study related to their job preference reveals their strong desire for job security and opportunities for career advancement. It is evident from the following data :

Percentage	Preference
49	Public Sector
23	Private Sector
17	Entrepreneurship

(5) In the context of technological adoption and digitization, jobs and tasks, along with the competencies required to execute them, are changing. 86 percent of youth feel very or moderately up to date with changes in skills requirements. Yet, 39 percent of youth feel very prepared or prepared for their ideal job, while 16 percent of youth feel either not prepared or very unprepared for their ideal job.

(6) Female respondents' education and employment aspirations match, if not exceed, those of male respondents. Yet, female respondents face discriminatory biases in hiring, have less paid work experience than their male counterparts, and face greater barriers in pursuing skills development opportunities. 60 percent of female respondents, for example, report having no paid work experience, compared to 54 percent of male respondents. In addition, 15 percent of female respondents report personal biases such as marital status, gender, age, or family background as a main barrier to employment compared to 9 percent of male respondents. While more female respondents report being very interested in participating in a skills development programme, only 19 percent have enrolled in a programme, compared to 26 percent of male respondents.

Respected Sir/Madam,

I wish to express my deep concern over the rapid urban sprawl in our cities, which is leading to serious environmental and infrastructural issues. The uncontrolled expansion of cities results in air and water pollution, deforestation, loss of agricultural land, and disruption of natural ecosystems.

Urban sprawl negatively impacts daily life by increasing traffic congestion, raising commuting times, and reducing air quality. Additionally, it puts immense pressure on public services and contributes to unplanned settlements.

To mitigate these issues, the government must promote effective urban planning, encourage vertical expansion, and implement sustainable transportation systems. Green spaces and eco-friendly infrastructure should be prioritized to balance urban development with environmental conservation.

I urge the concerned authorities to take immediate action to curb unplanned urbanization and ensure a sustainable future for our cities.

(A) It is in the news that all these pitiful kin Are to be bought out and mercifully gathered in To live in villages, next to the theatre and the store. Where they won't have to think for themselves anymore, While greedy good-doers, beneficent beasts of prey, Swarm over their lives enforcing benefits That are calculated to soothe them out of their wita, And by teaching them how to sleep they sleep all day Destroy their sleeping at night the ancient way. (A Roadside Stand)

(i) The expression "It is in the news" suggests:

- (1) It is good news for the roadside stand owners.
- (2) An important decision has been taken by the government.
- (3) The roadside stand owners have protested against the government.
- (4) That the news was not there in the newspaper.

Correct Answer: (2) An important decision has been taken by the government.

Solution: The expression "It is in the news" indicates that a significant development or government decision has been made. In the context of the poem, this decision affects the roadside stand owners. The reference to 'news' suggests some major policy or governmental decision that impacts them.

Quick Tip

When analyzing poetry, focus on context clues like tone, word choice, and references to external events to understand implied meanings.

7(A)(ii). Read the Assertion and the Reason below, with reference to the given extract.

Assertion: The poet complains that the rural people are exploited by the people in power.

Reason: The rural people reposed blind faith in the false promises of the people in power.

- (1) Both the Assertion and the Reason are true and the Reason is the correct explanation.
- (2) Both the Assertion and the Reason are true, but the Reason is not the correct explanation.

(3) The Assertion is true, but the Reason is false.

(4) The Assertion is false, but the Reason is true.

Correct Answer: (1) Both the Assertion and the Reason are true and the Reason is the correct explanation.

Solution: The poet's complaint is that rural people suffer under false hopes created by those in power. The rural population trusts these promises, which often result in manipulation and exploitation. The Reason effectively explains the Assertion.

Quick Tip

When dealing with Assertion-Reason questions, identify whether the Reason directly explains why the Assertion is true.

7(A)(iii). In the line "that are calculated to soothe them out of their wits", the phrase "soothe them out of their wits" refers to:

Correct Answer: The powerful authorities attempt to manipulate rural people with deceptive comfort, lulling them into a false sense of security.

Solution: The phrase "soothe them out of their wits" refers to how manipulative leaders create an illusion of security and calm, preventing people from questioning or resisting. This strategy controls rural populations by mentally suppressing their awareness.

Quick Tip

Pay attention to figurative language in poetry; phrases like "soothe them out of their wits" often symbolize deeper meanings.

7(A)(iv). Bring out the irony in the expression "they won't have to think for themselves".

Correct Answer: The irony lies in the fact that while the government claims to improve the rural people's condition, it actually strips them of their independence, making them dependent on others.

Solution: The irony is that the supposed relief offered by authorities appears helpful but actually weakens the people's ability to think independently. This manipulation is portrayed as a "mercy," but it robs them of autonomy.

Quick Tip

Irony often involves a contradiction between appearance and reality. Identifying this contrast is key to understanding deeper meanings in poetry.

7(B)(i). (B) If we were not so single-minded about keeping our lives moving,
and for once could do nothing,
perhaps a huge silence

might interrupt this sadness of never understanding ourselves with death.

Perhaps the Earth can teach us as when everything seems dead and later proves to be alive.

Now I'll count up to twelve
And you keep quiet and I will go.

(Keeping Quiet)

(i) Complete the following suitably.

The poet uses the expression "single-minded" to refer to:

Correct Answer: The relentless pursuit of material progress and worldly ambitions.

Solution: The poet criticizes humanity's one-dimensional focus on progress and work. By being "single-minded," people forget to pause and reflect on life's deeper meaning, which leads to emotional exhaustion and disconnection from the natural world.

Quick Tip

In poetry, expressions like "single-minded" often symbolize a deeper social or philosophical concern.

7(B)(ii). Why does the poet refer to silence as a welcoming interruption?

Correct Answer: The poet sees silence as an opportunity for introspection and reflection, which helps people connect with themselves and their surroundings.

Solution: The poet views silence as a positive break from the constant rush of life. In moments of stillness, people can reflect on their actions, emotions, and the world around them. Such reflection leads to greater self-awareness and wisdom.

Quick Tip

Pause and silence in poetry often symbolize mindfulness, reflection, or inner peace.

7(B)(iii). Read the Assertion and the Reason below, with reference to the given extract.

Assertion: The poet personifies Earth as a teacher.

Reason: We learn from the Earth that pausing doesn't mean the end.

Choose the correct option regarding their relationship.

- (1) Both the Assertion and the Reason are true and the Reason is the correct explanation.
- (2) Both the Assertion and the Reason are true, but the Reason is not the correct explanation.
- (3) The Assertion is true, but the Reason is false.
- (4) The Assertion is false, but the Reason is true.

Correct Answer: (1) Both the Assertion and the Reason are true and the Reason is the correct explanation.

Solution: The poet personifies Earth by attributing it with the qualities of a teacher. Earth shows that temporary silence (such as winter) is followed by life and growth (spring), proving that pauses in life do not signify failure or death but are part of a natural cycle.

Quick Tip

Personification in poetry gives human qualities to non-human elements, often to deliver deeper messages.

7(B)(iv). By the expression "keeping our lives moving," the poet refers to:

Correct Answer: The relentless routine of work and daily activities without reflection or pause.

Solution: The phrase "keeping our lives moving" highlights the continuous drive of humans toward progress, without taking breaks to reflect on their emotions, relationships, or surroundings. This mindset leads to a lack of deeper understanding of life.
