1. INTRODUCTION

The Master of Public Health program is a full-time residential program with 50 credit hours spread over a duration of 2 years. The course encompasses modules ranging from basic courses such as epidemiology, biostatistics, health economics, program management to advanced courses such as global and international health, demography and population sciences, health financing, legislations and policy & politics.

To make the learning more interactive, the institution employs a wide variety of pedagogical methods such as field exposure trainings, modules from CDC and WHO, and peer discussion sessions. The scholars are taught by experienced faculty from different departments at AIIMS Jodhpur and visiting faculty from India and abroad who have proven their mettle in the field of public health research and practice through years of experience in the field. Besides the on-site trainings, student also get opportunity of posting at state health departments, various institutions of national importance, renowned developmental agencies and civil society organisations for their observership and internship postings. The department provides mentorship and encourage the MPH scholars to present research findings at various scientific platforms throughout the duration of the course. AIIMS Jodhpur boasts an excellent placement ratio wherein our students have acquired prominent positions at Institutions of National Importance, research and academic institutions and developmental agencies across the country.
