Solution: Belgium is an example of a country where social divisions were based on language, with conflicts between the Dutch-speaking Flemish and the French-speaking Walloons.

Quick Tip

When studying social divisions based on language, keep an eye on Belgium's history of conflict between its Dutch and French-speaking regions.

62. When was the Constituent Assembly formed?

- (A) 1945
- (B) 1946
- (C) 1947
- (D) 1948

Correct Answer: (B) 1946

Solution: The Constituent Assembly of India was formed in 1946 under the Cabinet Mission Plan. It was responsible for drafting the Constitution of India, which was adopted on November 26, 1949, and came into effect on January 26, 1950.

Quick Tip

The Constituent Assembly was formed in 1946, and Dr. B.R. Ambedkar played a crucial role as the Chairman of the Drafting Committee.

63. When was the Planning Commission formed?

- (A) 1948
- (B) 1950
- (C) 1952
- (D) 1954

Correct Answer: (B) 1950

Solution: The Planning Commission of India was established in 1950 to oversee the country's economic planning and to formulate five-year plans for development.

Quick Tip

The Planning Commission was an essential body for India's economic growth in the post-independence period, responsible for creating a blueprint for the country's development.

64. When was the first Human Development Report of India released?

- (A) May 2000
- (B) April 2001
- (C) April 2002
- (D) August 2005

Correct Answer: (C) April 2002

Solution: The first Human Development Report of India was released in April 2002. It was an important milestone in assessing India's progress in terms of education, health, and living standards, rather than just economic growth.

Quick Tip

The Human Development Report is an important tool for measuring progress beyond GDP, focusing on human well-being, education, and health.

65. Who gave the calorie criteria for determining the poverty line?

- (A) Tendulkar Committee
- (B) Planning Commission
- (C) National Development Council
- (D) NITI Aayog

Correct Answer: (B) Planning Commission

Solution: The Planning Commission of India introduced the calorie-based criteria for determining the poverty line. This approach, based on minimum calorie consumption, was first suggested by the Task Force on Minimum Needs and Effective Consumption Demand in 1979. It defined poverty based on caloric intake: 2,400 kcal per day in rural areas and 2,100 kcal per day in urban areas.

Quick Tip

The Planning Commission's calorie-based poverty line was later revised by the Tendulkar Committee (2009), which shifted focus to a broader expenditure-based measure.

66. What is the remuneration of land called?

- (A) Interest
- (B) Wages
- (C) Profit
- (D) Rent

Correct Answer: (D) Rent

Solution: The remuneration or payment for land is called "Rent." It is one of the primary factors of production in economics.

Quick Tip

In economics, land is considered one of the factors of production, and its payment is called "Rent."

67. Which state of India has the highest per capita income?

- (A) Goa
- (B) Punjab
- (C) Telangana
- (D) Karnataka

Correct Answer: (A) Goa

Solution: Goa has the highest per capita income among the states of India, due to its higher levels of tourism and development.

Quick Tip

States with higher per capita income tend to have better economic development, tourism, and industrial output.

68. What is the monetary value of all final goods and services produced within a country in a year called?

- (A) Gross National Product
- (B) Gross Domestic Product
- (C) Net Domestic Product
- (D) Net National Product

Correct Answer: (B) Gross Domestic Product

Solution: The monetary value of all final goods and services produced within a country in a year is known as the Gross Domestic Product (GDP). It is a key economic indicator that measures the overall economic performance of a country and helps assess its growth and development.

Quick Tip

Gross Domestic Product (GDP) represents the total value of production within a country's borders, while Gross National Product (GNP) includes income earned by residents from abroad.

69. Which was formed under the chairmanship of Prof. P.C. Mahalanobis?

- (A) Central Statistical Organization
- (B) Human Development Index
- (C) National Income Committee
- (D) Planning Commission

Correct Answer: (A) Central Statistical Organization

Solution: The Central Statistical Organization was formed under the chairmanship of Prof. P.C. Mahalanobis, primarily to aid in data collection and statistical analysis for economic planning.

Quick Tip

The role of statistical organizations is crucial for providing data that informs national economic decisions and planning.

70. Rupee is the currency of which of the following countries?

- (A) India
- (B) Nepal
- (C) Pakistan
- (D) All of these

Correct Answer: (D) All of these

Solution: The Rupee is used as the official currency in India (Indian Rupee - INR), Nepal (Nepalese Rupee - NPR), and Pakistan (Pakistani Rupee - PKR). Each country issues its own version of the rupee, with different values and exchange rates.

Quick Tip

Several countries use the term ”Rupee” for their national currency, but each has its own independent monetary system and exchange rate.

71. What is saving?

- (A) Difference between consumption and saving
- (B) Difference between income and consumption
- (C) Difference between consumption and production
- (D) None of these

Correct Answer: (B) Difference between income and consumption

Solution: Saving is the portion of income that is not spent on consumption. It is calculated as the difference between income and consumption, representing the funds available for future investment or security.

Quick Tip

Saving is essential for financial stability and future investment. It is the amount left after deducting consumption expenses from total income.

72. Which of the following is not a letter of credit?

- (A) Cheque
- (B) Bank draft
- (C) Overdraft
- (D) Promissory note

Correct Answer: (C) Overdraft

Solution: A letter of credit is a financial instrument issued by a bank guaranteeing that a buyer's payment to a seller will be received on time. However, an overdraft is a facility that allows an account holder to withdraw more money than is available in their account, making it different from a letter of credit.

Quick Tip

A letter of credit ensures payment security in international trade, whereas an overdraft is a loan facility allowing withdrawals beyond available balance.

73. Which of the following is a part of capital market?

- (A) Securities market
- (B) Industrial market
- (C) Development financial institution
- (D) All of these

Correct Answer: (A) Securities market

Solution: Securities market is a part of the capital market, which deals in long-term funding through instruments like stocks and bonds.

Quick Tip

Capital markets are where long-term financial instruments such as stocks, bonds, and other securities are bought and sold.

74. When was the Cooperative Credit Society Act passed?

- (A) 1904
- (B) 1912
- (C) 1914
- (D) 1919

Correct Answer: (A) 1904

Solution: The Cooperative Credit Society Act was passed in 1904 to facilitate the establishment of cooperative banks and credit societies across India.

Quick Tip

The Cooperative Credit Society Act laid the foundation for cooperative banking and credit societies in India, aiming to help small borrowers.

75. Which sector contributes the most to India's Gross Domestic Product (GDP)?

- (A) Agriculture sector
- (B) Industrial sector
- (C) Service sector
- (D) None of these

Correct Answer: (C) Service sector

Solution: The service sector, including industries like IT, finance, and telecommunications, contributes the largest share to India's GDP, accounting for a significant portion of the economy.

Quick Tip

India's economic growth is primarily driven by the service sector, especially the IT and financial industries, which have seen rapid growth in recent years.

76. When was the LPG policy adopted in India?

- (A) 1990
- (B) 1991
- (C) 1995
- (D) 2001

Correct Answer: (B) 1991

Solution: The LPG (Liberalization, Privatization, Globalization) policy was adopted in India in 1991, marking a major shift in the country's economic policy.

Quick Tip

The LPG reforms of 1991 significantly opened up the Indian economy to the global market and reduced restrictions on businesses.

77. Mining is included in which sector?

- (A) Agriculture sector
- (B) Industrial sector
- (C) Service sector
- (D) None of these

Correct Answer: (A) Agriculture sector

Solution: Mining is often considered part of the industrial sector because it involves resource extraction and processing. However, in some economic classifications, primary activities like mining, along with agriculture, forestry, and fishing, are grouped under the primary sector due to their reliance on natural resources.

Quick Tip

The classification of mining varies: it is generally part of the industrial sector, but in broader economic models, it may be categorized under the primary sector, along with agriculture and forestry.

78. Which is the agency function of commercial bank?

- (A) To give loan
- (B) Buying and selling of securities
- (C) To provide locker
- (D) To accept deposits

Correct Answer: (D) To accept deposits

Solution: The primary agency function of a commercial bank is to accept deposits from the public and provide services related to their management.

Quick Tip

Commercial banks play a crucial role in the economy by accepting deposits and providing financial services to individuals and businesses.

79. What is the basic element of cooperative?

- (A) Mutual cooperation
- (B) Voluntary membership
- (C) Democratic functioning
- (D) All of these

Correct Answer: (D) All of these

Solution: The basic elements of a cooperative are mutual cooperation, voluntary membership, and democratic functioning, which are the fundamental principles of cooperatives.

Quick Tip

Cooperatives are built on the foundation of mutual cooperation, voluntary membership, and democratic decision-making.

80. Which of the following leads to capital formation?

- (A) Consumption
- (B) Exchange
- (C) Saving
- (D) Investment

Correct Answer: (C) Saving

Solution: Capital formation occurs when savings are invested in the economy. Savings contribute to building capital, which is crucial for economic growth.

Quick Tip

Saving is the key to capital formation because it leads to investment, which drives economic development.

SECTION-B

History

(Short Answer type Questions)

1. What were the main causes for the economic depression of 1929?

Solution:

The 1929 depression was caused by the 1929 stock market crash, leading to bank failures, mass unemployment, and a decline in international trade. Overproduction and the collapse of key financial institutions contributed to the worldwide economic crisis.

Quick Tip

The 1929 Great Depression had long-lasting global effects on both the economy and society, starting with the stock market crash in the U.S.

2. What were the economic effects of the Non-cooperation Movement?

Solution:

The Non-cooperation Movement led to a boycott of British goods and institutions, boosting Indian industries. It created economic instability for the British. While some sectors suffered, the movement promoted self-reliance, particularly in the textile and handicrafts industries.

Quick Tip

Boycotting British goods during the Non-cooperation Movement enhanced the development of indigenous industries in India.

3. How did the intellectual awakening affect the Russian Revolution?

Solution:

Intellectual awakening, particularly through Marxism and Leninism, inspired widespread discontent with Tsarist rule. Ideas of equality, workers' rights, and revolution prompted mass mobilization. It galvanized revolutionary movements, leading to the overthrow of Tsar Nicholas II and the rise of Soviet power.

Quick Tip

Intellectual movements such as Marxism were crucial in shaping revolutionary ideologies and inspiring the Russian Revolution.

4. State the reasons for the rise of nationalism in Vietnam.

Solution:

Nationalism in Vietnam arose due to French exploitation, social inequality, and cultural suppression. The desire for self-rule grew after observing successful anti-colonial movements in other countries. The spread of nationalist ideas led to resistance against French colonial rule and the fight for independence.

Quick Tip

Nationalism in Vietnam was driven by both the hardships under colonial rule and the growing desire for national independence.

5. Between whom and why was the Pune Agreement signed?

Solution:

The Pune Agreement was signed in 1932 between Mahatma Gandhi and Dr. B.R. Ambedkar. The agreement addressed the issue of separate electorates for Dalits, granting them reserved seats but rejecting separate electorates, thus ensuring unity within Hindu society.

Quick Tip

The Pune Agreement was significant in securing political rights for Dalits while maintaining social unity in India.

6. Why was the New Deal implemented?

Solution:

The New Deal, implemented by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was designed to provide relief, recovery, and reform during the Great Depression. Its main goals were to alleviate unemployment, stimulate economic growth, and prevent future economic downturns. It introduced public works programs, banking reforms, and social security, significantly reshaping the U.S. economy and government role in economic affairs.

Quick Tip

The New Deal is considered one of the most significant efforts in U.S. history to combat a national economic crisis.

(Long Answer type Questions)

7. Discuss the causes and effects of the rise of nationalism in Europe.

Solution:

The rise of nationalism in Europe during the 19th century was a result of various factors. One of the main causes was the spread of liberal ideas that challenged traditional monarchies and empires. The French Revolution of 1789 played a significant role in spreading the concept of equality, fraternity, and liberty, which encouraged people to fight for self-determination. The idea of the nation-state also gained momentum, which called for the unity of people who shared a common language, culture, and history.

Nationalism further spread due to economic factors, such as the Industrial Revolution, which led to increased trade and communication across Europe, helping in the creation of a sense of shared national identity. Furthermore, the decline of powerful empires, such as the Ottoman Empire and the Austro-Hungarian Empire, created opportunities for smaller nations to assert their independence.

The effects of nationalism were significant. It led to the unification of Italy and Germany under strong leaders like Cavour and Bismarck. Nationalism also contributed to the weakening of empires and the creation of new states. However, it also resulted in conflicts, such as the wars between European nations, the Balkan Wars, and eventually World War I. Nationalism intensified competition among European powers and led to a dangerous arms race. In conclusion, while nationalism contributed to the formation of modern nation-states, it also caused instability and violent conflicts.

Quick Tip

Nationalism in Europe significantly influenced both the unification of nations and the outbreak of wars, making it an important factor in shaping modern European history.

8. Discuss the contribution of the Indian National Congress in the Indian National Movement.

Solution:

The Indian National Congress (INC), formed in 1885, played a crucial role in India's struggle for independence. Initially, the INC aimed for moderate political reforms under British colonial rule, seeking constitutional changes and the expansion of Indian participation in governance. Its early leaders, such as Allan Octavian Hume, were primarily focused on achieving reforms through dialogue with the British government.

As the national movement gained momentum, the INC, under the leadership of figures like Bal Gangadhar Tilak and later Mahatma Gandhi, shifted towards more radical methods. The movement embraced mass mobilization through the Non-Cooperation Movement (1920) and the Civil Disobedience Movement (1930). Gandhi's philosophy of non-violence and civil disobedience gained widespread support, inspiring millions to join in protests against British rule.

The INC also became the central platform for various struggles, such as the Salt March in 1930 and the Quit India Movement in 1942. The Quit India Movement, in particular, was a call for immediate independence, highlighting the growing resentment against colonial rule. The INC's efforts were not limited to protests and boycotts. It also focused on social reform, promoting issues such as untouchability, education, and the empowerment of women. In conclusion, the Indian National Congress was instrumental in uniting the Indian people against British colonialism. Its diverse strategies, from constitutional methods to mass protests, ultimately led to India's independence in 1947, making the INC a vital force in the Indian National Movement.

Quick Tip

The Indian National Congress evolved from a moderate group to a radical force for change, uniting Indians in the fight for independence through diverse strategies.

Political-science (Short Answer type Questions)

9. How is communalism a threat to democracy?

Solution:

Communalism divides people based on religious, ethnic, or cultural differences, undermining the unity essential for a functioning democracy. It promotes intolerance, violence, and social unrest, weakening democratic values such as equality, justice, and secularism. When these values are compromised, the political stability necessary for democracy becomes fragile, leading to polarization and conflict.

Quick Tip

A strong democracy is built on unity, equality, and secularism. Counteracting communalism through education and inclusive policies is crucial to preserving democratic integrity.

10. State the jurisdiction of the village court.

Solution:

The village court has jurisdiction over minor civil disputes, family issues, and petty criminal offenses within the local community. It helps resolve local issues in a simplified manner, providing easier access to justice for villagers. It deals with matters such as property disputes, domestic issues, and small civil claims.

Quick Tip

Village courts promote local justice by resolving small disputes within the community quickly, reducing the burden on higher courts.

11. What is the utility of opposition party in a democracy?

Solution:

The opposition party plays an essential role in a democracy by keeping the ruling party in check. It challenges government policies, provides alternative solutions, and protects the interests of minority groups. By holding the government accountable, it helps improve decision-making and ensures a balance of power in the political system.

Quick Tip

The opposition ensures democracy thrives by offering constructive criticism, proposing alternatives, and preventing authoritarianism.

12. Explain the difference between Federal and Unitary government systems.

Solution:

In a federal system, power is shared between central and regional governments, with each having autonomy in specific areas. A unitary system, however, centralizes authority, granting the central government the supreme power. The federal system allows for more local autonomy, while a unitary system maintains stronger central control over all administrative matters.

Quick Tip

Federal systems empower states or regions, offering autonomy, while unitary systems centralize control to maintain uniformity across the country.

(Long Answer Type Questions)

13. How is the Federal system helpful in National integration? Describe.

Solution:

The Federal system plays a significant role in national integration by balancing the power between central and regional governments. It allows states to maintain autonomy over their cultural, social, and regional concerns while ensuring that the central government holds enough authority to govern the nation as a whole. This division of power helps accommodate regional diversity, reduce tensions, and promote peaceful coexistence. In India, the Federal system has allowed for the peaceful coexistence of states with different languages, religions, and cultural traditions, ensuring unity in diversity. By providing equal representation at the central level, it ensures that all states have a voice in shaping national policies. Moreover, federal systems can adapt policies based on the specific needs of different states while ensuring that national unity is not compromised. This decentralization strengthens the fabric of the nation and prevents the domination of any one group, making federalism a crucial mechanism for national integration.

Quick Tip

Federalism ensures that local and regional identities are respected while preserving national unity, promoting peace and stability.

14. Describe the effects of communal and caste differences on the politics of India.

Solution:

Communal and caste differences have significantly impacted the politics of India. These divisions have created challenges in governance, as political parties often seek support based on religious or caste affiliations. This leads to the fragmentation of the electorate and can result in vote-bank politics, where parties cater to the interests of specific groups rather than focusing on national issues. The rise of communalism, particularly religious polarization, has sometimes resulted in social unrest and violence. Caste-based politics has also led to the formation of caste-based parties that may prioritize the needs of one group over another, creating division rather than unity. However, India's democratic system has also helped in providing political representation to various marginalized communities, giving them a voice in the decision-making process. The challenge, however, remains in ensuring that these divisions do not hinder social and economic progress. A balance needs to be struck between maintaining social harmony and promoting inclusive politics that transcends caste and communal identities.

Quick Tip

Promoting secular and inclusive policies in India is essential to overcoming communal and caste-based politics for national progress.

ECONOMICS

(Short Answer Type Questions)

15. State the components of Human Development Index.

Solution:

The Human Development Index (HDI) is calculated using three main components: life expectancy, which reflects the health dimension; education, measured by mean years of schooling and expected years of schooling; and per capita income, which indicates the standard of living. These components combine to assess a country's development beyond just economic factors.

Quick Tip

HDI helps evaluate social and economic development by focusing on health, education, and income indicators, making it a comprehensive measure.

16. Why is sustainable development necessary?

Solution:

Sustainable development is necessary to meet present needs without compromising future generations' ability to meet theirs. It focuses on environmental protection, social equity, and economic growth, ensuring that resources are used efficiently. This balanced approach helps prevent the depletion of natural resources, reduces environmental degradation, and promotes long-term social and economic stability.

Quick Tip

Sustainable development is crucial to achieving lasting growth, considering environmental, social, and economic factors to ensure future well-being.

17. Explain the difference between cheque and bank draft.

Solution:

A cheque is a written order directing a bank to pay a specific amount from the issuer's account to the payee. It can bounce if there are insufficient funds. A bank draft, however, is a pre-paid payment method issued by a bank, guaranteeing the funds. Since it is drawn against the bank's own funds, it is considered more secure and cannot bounce.

Quick Tip

A bank draft is more reliable than a cheque as it guarantees payment, making it a safer option for large transactions.

18. Explain the four rights of the consumer under the Consumer Protection Act.

Solution:

Under the Consumer Protection Act, consumers have four main rights: the right to safety (protection from hazardous goods), the right to be informed (access to accurate information about products), the right to choose (freedom to choose from available options), and the right to seek redressal (ability to address grievances and seek compensation). These rights empower consumers to make informed and safe choices in the market.

Quick Tip

Consumers should be aware of their rights to safeguard themselves from exploitation and ensure fair treatment in the marketplace.

(Long Answer Type Questions)

19. Discuss the main functions of commercial banks.

Solution:

Commercial banks are essential for the financial system and economy. Their primary function is to accept deposits and provide loans. Deposits are gathered from individuals, businesses, and the government. These deposits are then used to offer loans to people, businesses, and institutions, which helps stimulate economic growth. Banks also provide payment services, such as issuing cheques and facilitating electronic payments. They offer foreign exchange services, allowing individuals and businesses to exchange currencies. In addition, commercial banks act as intermediaries in the financial markets, helping to distribute capital effectively across the economy. Furthermore, they help in maintaining liquidity, manage savings, and promote investments, which is crucial for economic growth and financial stability. By offering a range of products and services, commercial banks contribute to financial inclusion, enabling individuals and businesses to access essential financial tools.

Quick Tip

Commercial banks play a central role in economic development by providing capital and facilitating financial transactions.

20. What is saving? Discuss the factors affecting saving.

Solution:

Saving is the portion of income that is not spent immediately but set aside for future use. It is crucial for personal financial security and enables individuals to meet future expenses such as retirement, healthcare, or education. Factors influencing saving include income level, interest rates, and economic conditions. Higher income typically leads to higher saving rates, as individuals have more disposable income. Interest rates incentivize saving by offering returns on deposits. Conversely, low-interest rates may discourage saving. Economic conditions, such as inflation and job security, also affect saving behavior. During times of economic uncertainty, people may save more for financial security. Additionally, government policies like tax incentives for savings can encourage saving. Psychological factors, such as an individual's attitude towards money and long-term goals, play a role in saving behavior. In a growing economy, saving provides the capital necessary for investments, driving future growth.

Quick Tip

A strong saving habit is essential for financial stability, and factors like income, interest rates, and economic conditions greatly influence it.

GEOGRAPHY

(Short Answer Type Questions)

21. Name four main national waterways of India.

Solution:

India has a vast network of national waterways. The major national waterways include: 1. National Waterway 1 (Ganga-Bhagirathi-Hooghly river system), 2. National Waterway 2 (Brahmaputra River), 3. National Waterway 3 (West Coast Canal), 4. National Waterway 4 (Godavari-Krishna rivers system). These waterways help in transporting goods, reducing road traffic, and boosting the economy.

Quick Tip

National waterways improve the movement of goods across the country and reduce dependency on road and rail transportation.

22. Write a short note on the utility of resource conservation.

Solution:

Resource conservation is essential for sustaining our natural environment and ensuring future generations can meet their needs. It helps in preserving biodiversity, conserving energy, reducing pollution, and managing natural resources effectively. By conserving resources like water, forests, and energy, we reduce environmental damage, mitigate climate change, and maintain ecological balance, which is crucial for sustainable development.

Quick Tip

Resource conservation is fundamental to sustainable development, helping preserve resources for future generations.

23. Write the characteristics of delta soil.

Solution:

Delta soil is highly fertile and rich in minerals. It is found in the deltas of rivers, such as the Ganges and the Godavari. This soil has a good amount of moisture, nutrients, and organic matter, making it suitable for agriculture. Delta soils are typically loamy, capable of holding water efficiently, and support a variety of crops, including rice and jute.

Quick Tip

Delta soil is rich in fertility, thanks to its mineral content, making it suitable for growing water-intensive crops.

24. Differentiate between agro-based and mineral-based industries.

Solution:

Agro-based industries rely on raw materials sourced from agriculture, such as food processing, textiles, and paper manufacturing. These industries are dependent on seasonal crop production. Mineral-based industries, on the other hand, utilize mineral resources as raw materials, such as iron and steel, cement, and coal industries. These industries are generally more energy-intensive and do not rely on agricultural cycles.

Quick Tip

Agro-based industries use agricultural produce, while mineral-based industries rely on raw minerals for manufacturing processes.

25. Why is buffer stock created?

Solution:

Buffer stock is created by the government to ensure food security. It involves storing surplus food grains during years of abundance to be used during times of scarcity, such as during droughts or floods. Buffer stocks help in stabilizing food prices and ensuring that there is always a steady supply of essential food items to meet the needs of the population.

Quick Tip

Buffer stocks help stabilize food prices and maintain supply during times of crisis, ensuring food security.

26. What is the importance of border roads?

Solution:

Border roads are vital for national security and economic development. They facilitate movement of troops and supplies along the borders, ensuring quick response in times of national security threats. Additionally, border roads improve access to remote areas, promote trade with neighboring countries, and support the economic integration of border regions by improving connectivity and infrastructure.

Quick Tip

Border roads are essential for national security, providing quick access to remote areas and supporting economic integration.

(Long Answer Type Questions)

27. Mention the measures to increase the forest wealth in India.

Solution:

To increase the forest wealth in India, several measures need to be adopted:

1. Afforestation and reforestation programs must be implemented on a large scale to restore depleted forest areas.
2. Protection of existing forests by enforcing laws and regulations against deforestation.
3. Encouraging the sustainable use of forest resources, such as non-timber forest products.
4. Promoting agroforestry and community-based forest management to involve local communities in conservation efforts.
5. Increasing awareness about the importance of forests and the need for conservation at the grassroots level.

By adopting these measures, India can effectively increase its forest cover, thus enhancing biodiversity and mitigating climate change.

Quick Tip

The key to increasing forest wealth is a balance between conservation efforts and sustainable use of forest resources.

28. Write a short note on the impact of globalization on Indian agriculture.

Solution:

Globalization has had a significant impact on Indian agriculture, both positive and negative. On the positive side, it has opened up new markets for Indian agricultural products, leading to increased exports. The introduction of advanced agricultural technology and modern farming practices has also enhanced productivity. However, globalization has also led to challenges, such as increased competition from foreign agricultural products, which sometimes undermines local farmers. Moreover, the pressure to produce for global markets has sometimes resulted in unsustainable farming practices. Additionally, the focus on cash crops for export has reduced the diversity of crops grown for domestic consumption. Therefore, while globalization has provided new opportunities, it has also posed challenges to the sustainability and equity of Indian agriculture.

Quick Tip

Globalization brings opportunities but also challenges, particularly in balancing local needs with global market demands.

DISASTER MANAGEMENT

(Short Answer type Questions)

29. Name the alternative communication means used in natural calamities.

Solution:

In natural calamities, alternative communication methods include the use of satellite phones, ham radios, loudspeakers, and mobile networks. Additionally, social media platforms and community messaging systems help in disseminating critical information to affected populations and rescue teams.

Quick Tip

During emergencies, communication methods should be diversified, ensuring redundancy in case one system fails.

30. Mention the damages caused by flood.

Solution:

Floods cause extensive damage, including destruction of infrastructure such as roads, bridges, and homes. Crops, livestock, and farmland are often destroyed, leading to food scarcity. Floods also cause loss of life, displacing communities and increasing the risk of diseases due to contaminated water sources.

Quick Tip

Flood preparedness involves building infrastructure that can withstand floods and proper drainage systems to minimize damage.

31. State the causes of drought.

Solution:

Drought is caused by prolonged periods of below-average rainfall, inadequate water retention in the soil, and reduced water levels in rivers and reservoirs. Other contributing factors include climate change, deforestation, and unsustainable water usage for agriculture and industrial activities.

Quick Tip

To prevent drought, effective water management practices, along with sustainable agriculture and forest conservation, are essential.

32. What types of houses are built in earthquake prone areas?

Solution:

In earthquake-prone areas, houses are built using flexible and lightweight materials like wood, steel, and reinforced concrete. Earthquake-resistant designs include reinforced walls, cross-bracing, and foundations that allow movement. Buildings are often equipped with seismic dampers to reduce the forces during an earthquake.

Quick Tip

Building houses with seismic resilience is crucial to minimize damage and ensure the safety of inhabitants during earthquakes.
